

Abstract

The present invention relates to methods and compositions for cleaning surfaces including carpet or upholstery. The compositions include degreasing penetrant, anionic surfactant, and optionally, an amphoteric surfactant to provide foaming characteristics. The methods of cleaning a surface, such as carpet or upholstery, include applying to the surface such a composition or a use solution of one of these compositions.